

How the Foundation and Bank process your personal data
(information according to the General Data Protection Regulation – GDPR)

Personal data that you submit in this application, or that is otherwise registered within the framework of the application process, is processed for the assessment and subsequent administration of your application, including the publication of whether or not your application have been approved.

The Foundation is responsible for the personal data. Handelsbanken handles the Foundation's administration and acts as its data processor.

Personal data may be supplemented with data from private and public databases, such as address information updates using the Swedish national personal address database, SPAR.

The personal data is stored as long as it is necessary for processing purposes, and for the Foundation to be able to fulfil its legal duties.

If you require information about what personal data of yours is being processed on behalf of the Foundation, you can send a written request to Handelsbanken Stiftelsestjänst, SE-106 70 Stockholm, Sweden. Name which foundation you are referring to.

We would be grateful if you could get in touch if you discover that any information, such as your address, is incorrect or incomplete.

Comprehensive information about the Bank's processing of personal data and your rights in conjunction with this processing is available at www.handelsbanken.se.

Consent for the processing of special categories of personal data¹

When the data that you submit in your application includes special categories of personal data, your consent is required to process this data.

By signing the application, you consent to this data being processed for the purposes stated above.

¹ Under the GDPR, special categories of personal data are defined as personal data that reveals race or ethnic origin, political views, religious or philosophical convictions, or membership in a trade union, and the processing of genetic information, biometric information to unequivocally identify a physical person, data about health, or information about a physical person's sexual life or sexual orientation.
